

Reno Municipal Court Judge Kenneth R. Howard Retiring

Reno Municipal Court senior Judge Ken Howard will retire next month after completing 18 years service with the court. Judge Howard was appointed to the bench in 1998 and has been re-elected three times without opposition.

For several years, Judge Howard has conducted a treatment court designed specifically to stop the abuse of alcohol, drugs and related criminal activity. He also has overseen the popular "Kid's Court" program which brought elementary students to the courthouse to learn about our justice system, peer pressure and positive decision making.

"It has been my distinct honor and privilege to serve our community as a judge during the past 18 years. Serving as a judge and as a Deputy District Attorney prior to holding office have been extremely rewarding experiences! I have truly been blessed and I would like to thank everyone who assisted me along the way."

Tammy Riggs will be sworn in as Judge Howard's replacement in Department Four of the court on November 16th.
